

Michelle Higgin, Ph.D.

Managing Principal, Strategic Planning and Program Management

Michelle is an expert in strategic planning and program management.

She began her Pharmaceutical career 20 years ago when she started working in the labs at Johnson and Johnson in Raritan, N.J. Since then, she's held a wide range of positions and focused her expertise on high level project management for virtual biotech companies. She enjoys applying her breadth of experience into organizing multi-functional milestone-focused teams. Her goal is to consider each program as unique and to build best-of-breed teams and resources with attention to effective visual communication of scientific principles, risks, timelines and budgets. Dr. Higgin leads full IND-enabling programs as well as nonclinical and CMC programs during clinical development.
